A COUNTRY WELCOME

We have packed this exciting issue of CountryStitch with designs sure to please country-minded stitchers. Many of the pieces you'll find here are perfect for gift-giving, and who among us doesn't enjoy the pleasures of giving a gift made with our hands? Weddings, birthdays, housewarmings and Christmas— yes, Christmas— are all covered! Since we never seem to have enough time for stitching great Christmas decorator pieces, we asked our design team to create a series of masterpiece antique Santas, which we could begin to stitch now. However, after stitching this charming Santa, we may be tempted to keep him for use in our homes, year-round! Look for his companions in upcoming issues of CountryStitch.

COUNT YOUR GARDEN

Simple, colorful stitches and a clever verse are artfully combined to create this pleasing stitchery. The verse, taken from an Italian philosophy, makes this design especially appealing to those who cherish delicate blooms. My mother absolutely loves her backyard garden, and I know she'll be happy to add this endearing piece to her cross stitch collection. Then when the weather outside is just too cold for gardening, she can enjoy nature's beauty indoors in the comfort of her own home!

THE GRAND HOTEL

TOWN SQUARE AFGHAN

Continuing our journey around the town square, we find The Grand Hotel and The Daily Journal. I grew up in a small town in rural America, and I remember standing in front of the local newspaper office for hours on end, peering in through the window in hopes of catching a glimpse of the press inside as it churned out page after page. Of course to actually have your name printed in the paper was a special treat, and everyone seemed to linger a little longer than usual at the post office every other Wednesday, the day the paper arrived. The newspaper office still turns out that biweekly paper, and my grandmother subscribes to it for me. Although the news is pretty old by the time it reaches me, it's a treat I enjoy, and I read each edition from front to back. The charming motifs on the Town Square Afghan remind me of my hometown, and bring back fond memories of my growing-up years there!

NOTHING LIKE HOMEMADE

Stitch this delightful design for display in your own kitchen, or to give to a close friend who shares your love for things made with the hands, and from the heart. My sister Julie enjoys displaying colorful cross stitched pieces throughout her home. She also just loves my grandmother's homemade jam. For her birthday this year, I plan to borrow Grandma's recipe, whip up a batch of jam, and present it to her in a wicker basket along with this pleasing stitched piece!

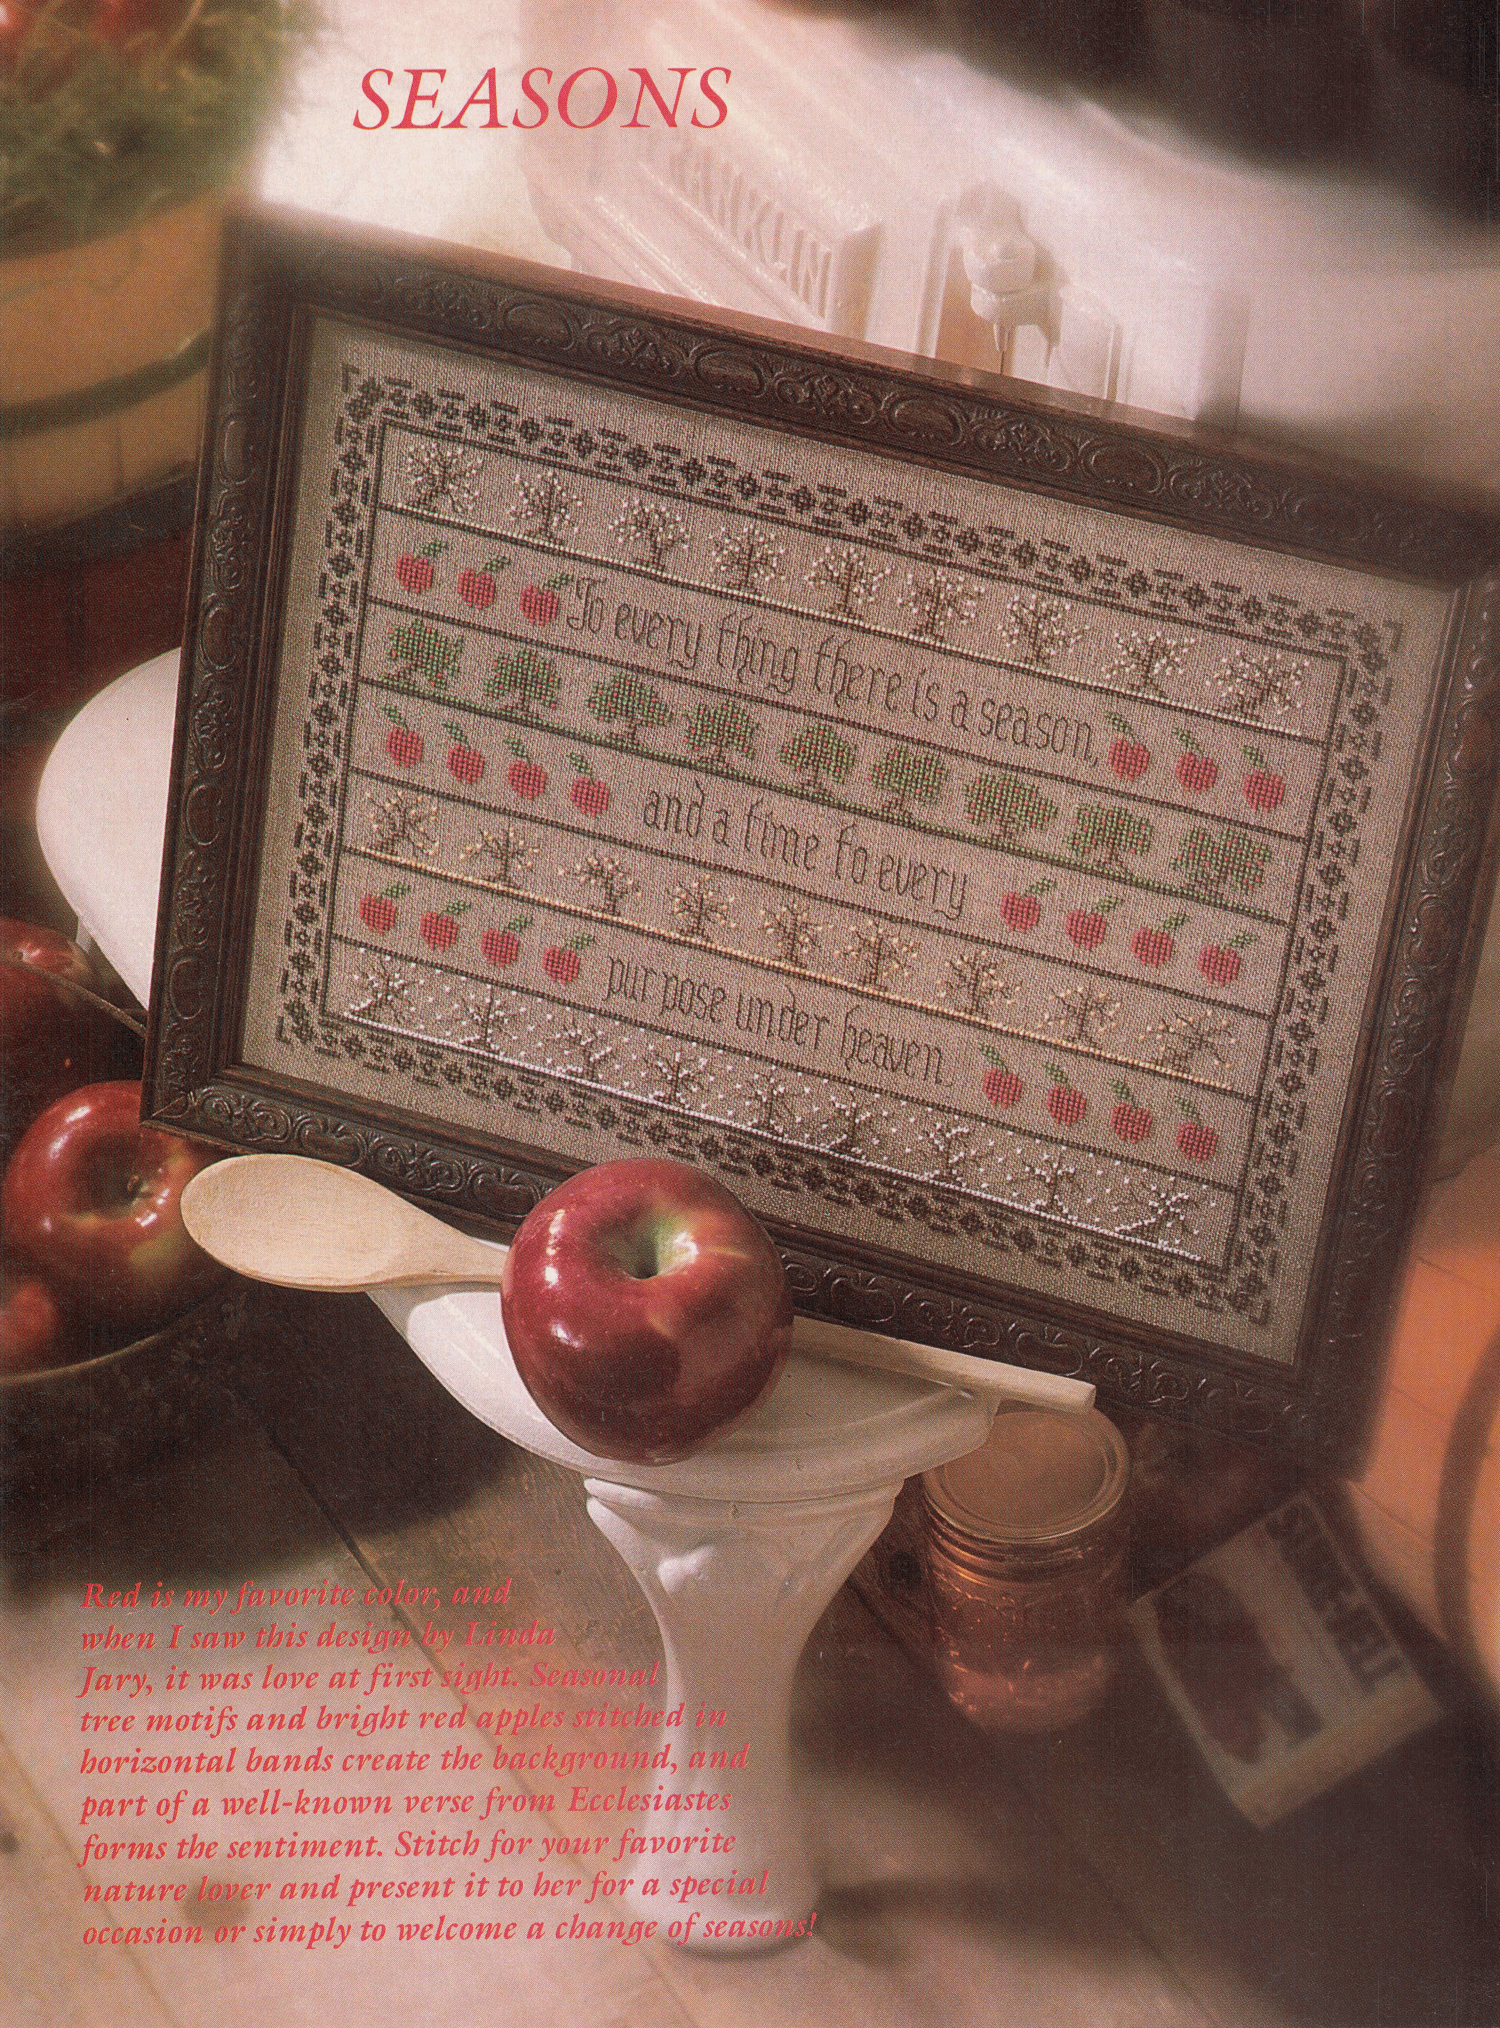
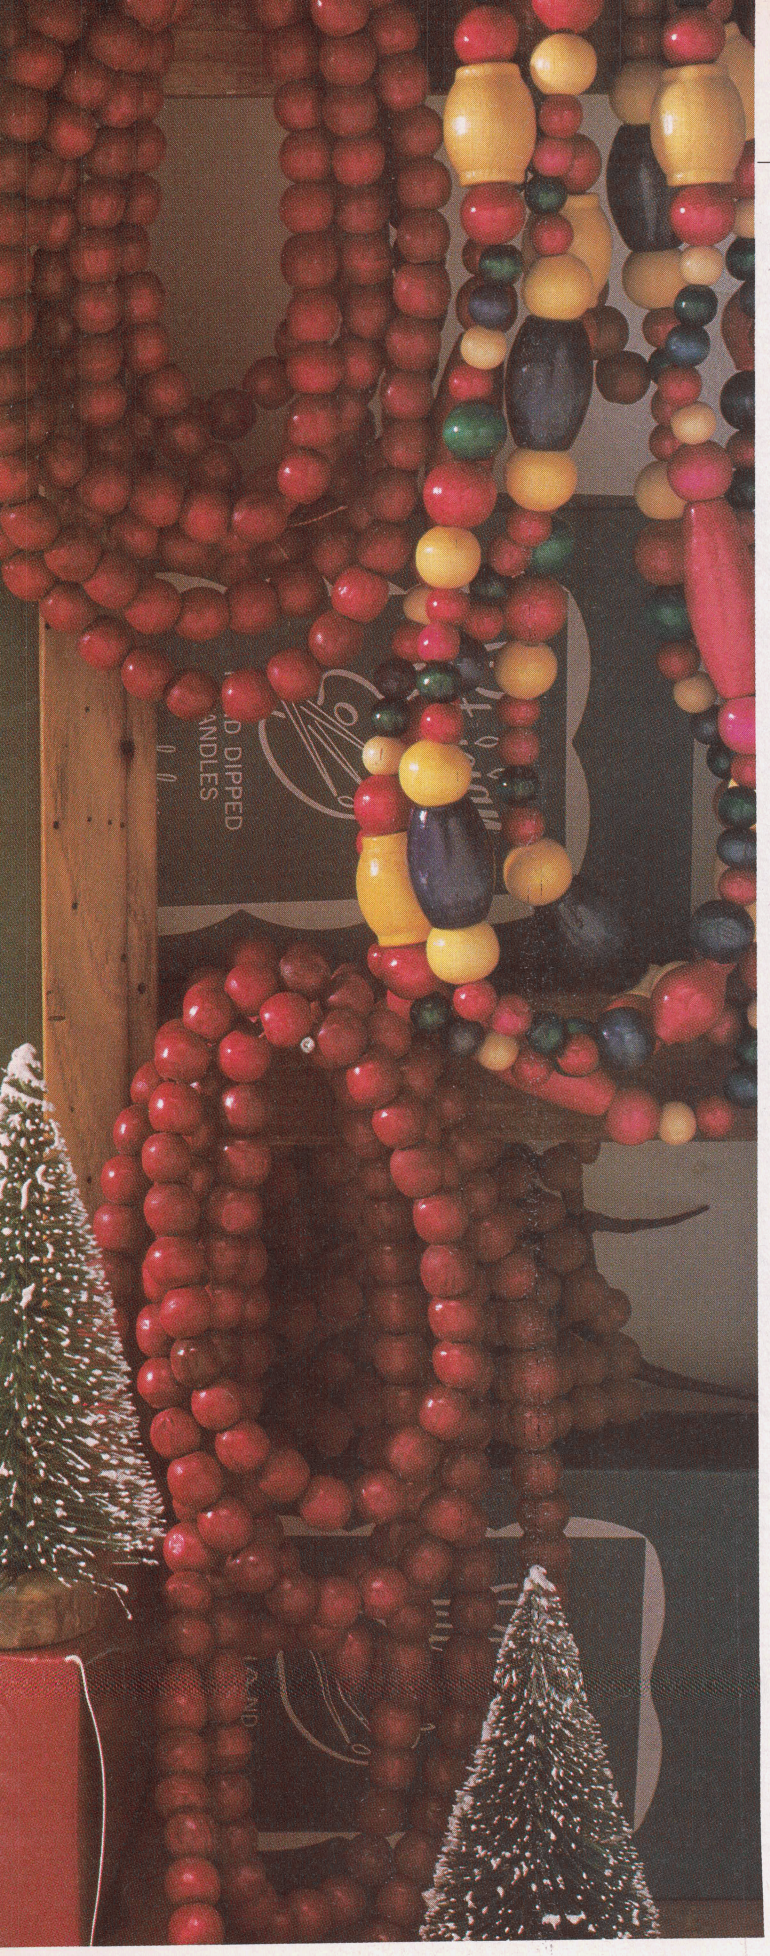
SEASONS



Red is my favorite color, and when I saw this design by Linda Jary, it was love at first sight. Seasonal tree motifs and bright red apples stitched in horizontal bands create the background, and part of a well-known verse from Ecclesiastes forms the sentiment. Stitch for your favorite nature lover and present it to her for a special occasion or simply to welcome a change of seasons!

A Merry Christmas



ANTIQUE SANTA AND POINSETTIAS

Throughout history, Santa Claus has held great appeal for children of all ages at Christmastime. Images of him, though they vary across the globe, are part of the special magic of this happy season. Today, visions of a jolly character in a red, fur-trimmed suit best describe our modern-day Santa in this country, but picture, if you will, a Santa Claus from days gone by. Design Artist Cathy Livingston shares with us her interpretation of this favorite yuletide character in stitches in this, the first of four antique Santa designs. Certain to become classic seasonal favorites, the designs will be presented series style over the issues leading up to Christmas. Stitch the Santas as you receive each new issue, and you'll have a lovely quartet of seasonal stitched pieces to display prominently in your home this holiday season.
